DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-2, 50-53, 77 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over 6841549.

Note field 87, giving publication date of 1/11/2001.

See example 14. This compound differs from the claims only in that it lacks the 9-heteroaryl feature required. However, the definition of R3 in the reference includes both choices, and there are numerous examples of compounds with exactly that, e.g. 11-12, 54-55, 58-60 and many more. Thus, the reference teaches these choices as alternatively useable for the invention. Alternatively, see e.g. 11-12, 54-55, 58-60. These differ from the claims only in that they have amino or dimethylamino instead of pyrrolidino. However, the definition for R1 clearly embraces NR4R5 forming a ring. See e.g. the definition for R1 is claim 1 of the patent, or at column 15, lines 32-37. Example 14 provides clear motivation to make the specific choice of pyrrolidino. In other words, the reference exemplifies both features, albeit no one species has both, and hence the reference is applied under 35 USC 103 rather than 102. With regard to claims 50-53, the reference teaches treatment of diabetes, and since obesity is a prime cause for DM, it would be obvious to use the agents of the reference in combination with any known type of anti-obesity drug.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 51 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, paragraphs 1 and 2, as the claimed invention is not described, or is not described in such full, clear, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to make and use the same, and/or failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as his invention.

Specifically:

Claim 51 asserts and another agent, but an agent for what? The claim is indefinite. Read literally, it would include an agent for anything, even agents that would work against the main disorder. Thus, the other agent could be a sedative, which would nullify the anti-depressive effect. What would be the value of that? Thus, it is not clear just what this second agent is for

Claim Objections

Claims 3-49, 78-81 objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
